CAREER OBJECTIVE

I am a passionate designer in many different fields and with the growth of technology I have been able to extend my skills and natural ability into that of web and UX design.

I am always excited to begin a new project - to work with a client taking a project from the initial concept through to delivering and implementing a product that is beyond expectations of both the client and the user. This is established with exceptional communication skills, understanding frustrations as well as the desired outcomes. researching, testing the prototype, problem solving and ultimately developing a final product that is simple with an aesthetically designed user interface and a high level of usability.

As well as strong customer and personable skills I am a highly motivated team player. I look forward to employment in a supportive environment where I can contribute and further develop my skills.
